System Plus Consulting is a French company specialized in Reverse Costing, performing manufacturing cost analysis from physical analysis of electronics components, strategic consulting to a worldwide customer base. Covering emerging and disruptive silicon and micro manufacturing markets, the Group supports companies, and R&D organizations by delivering comprehensive analysis that helps them understand the technology and cost trends critical to their business.

System Plus Consulting is part of Yole Group of companies with offices in France, Germany, Japan, Greater China, Korea and the U.S.A.

JOB DESCRIPTION

As part of our activities development, we are currently recruiting a Junior FullStack Developer for a position located in our premises in Nantes. In this role, you will be in charge of developing innovative solution for our new set of tools and maintening existing costing software aimed at helping our different internal services and customers.

Within the IT Department, you will work with the Technical Manager and Product Manager, you will also have direct exchange with our core business expert.

RESPONSABILITIES

As a junior FullStack developer, you will be in charge of :

- Building & Developing new features following Agile specifications,
- Adapting solutions to be scalable, to match performances and to be maintainable,
- Contributing to RESTFul API, modern Front-end stack, Django website,
- Maintaining and evolving existing Excel, Access costing tools,

- Reporting progress to your manager and analysing issues ahead,
- Working in autonomy to successfully achieve projects,
- Writing code documentation and following standard guidelines,
- Testing your code and writing scenario for automatic test.

EDUCATION / EXPERIENCE

- University Degree (Master, Engineer) or BAC+2 with significant background in software engineering
- Experience and skills in software development with Java, Python, JavaScript, VBA, database (PostgreSQL, Access), Excel
- Interest in economics and cost related subjects in electronic business
- Communication and presentation skills
- Team player and organized
- Proficiency in English speaking / writing is needed

Please send your latest CV & cover letter to recruiting@systemplus.fr